

About 22,200,000 results (0.46 seconds)

Liquid Egg Product Handling

A perforated plate contained within the vat serves as a filter to remove eggshells. The liquid egg is pumped through a filter and then is pumped to the cooling system. After cooling, the liquid egg is pumped to a storage silo for further processing. Oct 14, 2015

 United States Department of Agriculture (.gov)
https://www.fsis.usda.gov/sites/files/media_file

Egg Products Process and Plant Familiarization

